

- Christian Education in the Home

Parents – You are the best educators for your children.

Through baptism, each child has become part of the Christian faith family. We, the parents, sponsors and the congregational members, have promised to teach and nurture each child in the Christian faith. That is a big promise.

As a church, we provide educational programs throughout a child's and adult's life. See Christian Educational Programs.

But it is what we learn in the home (intentionally or unintentionally) that our children and future adults will most likely base their Christian faith practices after.

And for some people, teaching Christian education can seem a little scary. So it is here that we will provide families with Christian resources and ideas that can help you teach the faith and show your child how to live a life like Jesus.

It is our hope that those visiting this site will email us with the specific ways they bring God into their home, so that we may pass that information along here.
